growth classes summer j-term (june 21-july 26)

In-depth Study of the Book of Nahum - At first glance, the little prophetic book of Nahum does not appear to be a good fit in the Old Testament—it gleefully announces the fall of Nineveh, the capital of the Assyrian Empire, which had terrorized Israel and Judah for three centuries (ca. 900-612 B.C.). However, one can glean much about God's attributes of mercy and judgment from this little book. We will do a verse by verse study of this book, as well as study the historical background of the period (7th century B.C.). Taught by Mark Chavalas 9:00 to 10:10 am in room 212/218.

Christian Faith Expressed in the Music of the Great Christian Composers - Many of the great composers expressed their faith through the music they composed. Musical examples from composers like Bach, Haydn, and Handel will be presented in class to illustrate. These examples, plus selections for outside of class will be used as springboards for devotional readings during the week. A brief biography for each composer will be given—outlining their life and times—with an emphasis on what is known about their spiritual pilgrimage. Taught by David Townsend 9:00 to 10:10 am in room 214.

What Did Jesus Do?: Studies in the Book of Mark continued - By now we've all heard the familiar encouragement to ask, "What Would Jesus Do?", but sometimes we need to get even more basic and ask, "What DID Jesus Do?" In this class we will witness Jesus healing the sick, see him casting out demons, watch as he confronts the religious leaders of the day, and listen as he answers hard questions and speaks as no one else ever did! Taught by Andrew LeCleir 9:00 to 10:10 am in room 216.
